

The Catherine Shropshire Hardman Symposium for the Advancement of Clinical Psychoanalysis and Interdisciplinary Scholarship

Dr. Mikle South

Dr. Mikle South is Professor of Psychiatry and Director of the Emory Autism Center at Emory University in Atlanta, which provides clinical service and research focused on inclusion for individuals, families, and communities throughout the lifespan. He received a BA from Yale University followed by a PhD in Child Clinical Psychology at the University of Utah, working with Dr. Sally Ozonoff. He returned to Yale for postdoctoral training in developmental neuroimaging then spent 14 years in the Psychology Department at Brigham Young University.

His research program is focused on understanding the interaction of anxiety and autism in brain and behavior, and recent studies of sleep in autism and risk factors for suicidal thoughts and behaviors in young adults. Dr. South's professional practice specializes in assessment and diagnosis of autism with a special interest in how autism presents in girls and women. He loves playing soccer and eating proper pizza.

Dr. Geoff Goodman

Dr. Geoff Goodman is Associate Professor of Psychology in the Long Island University Clinical Psychology Doctoral Program, New York. He is also a licensed clinical and school psychologist with 29 years of experience in private practice in New York, treating children and adolescents as well as adults. He is certified by the American Board of Professional Psychology (ABPP) and is certified as both an adult and a child and adolescent psychoanalyst and Fellow of the International Psychoanalytical Association (FIPA). In 2013, Dr. Goodman was awarded the J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship by the US Department of State and spent eight months in 2014 establishing and evaluating a play-based intervention program to facilitate the development of school readiness skills in preschool children in two rural village libraries in Uganda. Dr. Goodman lives in Lynbrook, NY, with his wife Valeda, daughter Carlyn, and Bengal cat, Sulwe.
